A YELLOW WOMAN, called Celia a Detcher, in the 23d year of her age, about 5 feet 2 or 3 inches high—marks like moles on the right side of her face, which, with several letters on her left arm, were made with india ink. She is about four months gone in a state of pregnancy—followed her husband, Jim Clark, a yellow man, who was purchased from this place and taken away in company with a large number of slaves, about two weeks ago, by a man of the name of Basset. It is supposed they have gone to the westward: Celia was born free, and had with her a notarial certificate of her freedom, and description of her person. Her mother, the subscriber, is much afflicted by her manner of going away, and desires that any humane people who may chance to meet with her, will persuade her to return, being apprehensive that when she gets into a strange country, where she will be unknown and out of the reach of her friends and those who would be likely to protect her, attempts may be made by some avaricious and unprincipled persons, to deprive her of her liberty, and sell her for a slave. Should any such attempt be made, fifty dollars reward will be paid to any person who will communicate such information as shall lead to the conviction of the offenders, and the recovery of the woman.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE
AND DAILY ADVERTISER.
PUBLISHED BY
SAMUEL SNOWDEN,
ROYAL-STREET.
Daily Gazette, 7 dols. Country, 5 dols.
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1818.

Mr. Editor,
The present gloomy situation of the banking institutions recalls to my recollection Swift's poem of
"THE RUN UPON THE BANKERS," of which please transcribe a few stanzas.

We want our money on the nail;
The banker's ruin'd if he pays;
They seem to act an ancient tale;
The birds are met to strip the jays.
Riches, the wisest monarch sings,
Make pinions for themselves to fly;
They fly like bats on parchment wings,
And geese their stiver plumes supply.
No money left for squand'ring heirs!
Bills turn the lenders into debtors:
The wish of Nero now is theirs;
That they had never known their letters!

Conceive the works of midnight-hags,
Tormenting tools behind their backs:
Thus bankers o'er their bills and bags
Sit squeezing images of war.

Conceive the magic enchantment broke;
The witches left in open air,
With pow'r no more than other folk,
Expos'd with all their magic ware.

So powerful are a banker's bills,
Where creditors demand their due;
They break up counters, doors, and tills,
And leave the empty chests in view.

Thus when an earthquake lets in light,
Upon the god of gold and tell,
Unable to endure the sight,
He hides within his darkest cell.

As when a conjurer takes a lease
From Satan for a term of years,
The tenant's in a dismal case,
When 'er the bloody bond appears.

A baited banker thus desponds,
From his own hand fore-see his fall;
They have his soul who have his bonds;
'Tis like the writing on the wall.

How will the catfish wretch be scar'd,
When fir' he finds himself awake
At the last trumpet, unpar'd,
And all his grand account to make?

For in that universal call,
Few bankers will to heav'n be mounters;
They'll cry, Ye shops upon us fall,
Conceal and cover us, ye counters!

When other hands the scales shall hold,
And they in men and angels sight,
Pro-lud'd with all their bills and gold,
Weigh'd in the balance, and found light.

* Solomon.
† It is said of Nero, that when he first came to the imperial dignity from the tutelage of Seneca, being asked to sign a warrant for an execution, he wished he could not write.

‡ Witches were fabled to torment the absent, by roasting or otherwise ill treating their images in wax.
§ These contracts were always supposed to be signed with blood.

LINES

Inscribed to Dr. Fitzgerald, on perusing the following energetic apostrophe to his birth place, the village of Tipperary, in his poem entitled "The Academic Sportsman."

"And thou, dear village, loveliest of the clime,
Fain would I name thee, but I can't in rhyme!"

A bard was in a sad quandary
To end his rhyme with—Tipperary!
Toiled every day in February
But toiled in vain for—Tipperary!

Exploring "Dybe's Dictionary,"
He missed the rhyme for—Tipperary!
Searched Hebrew text, and commentary,
Yet found no rhyme for—Tipperary!

And though of time he was not chary,
'Twas thrown away on—Tipperary!
For still the line would run contrary,
When 'er he turned to—Tipperary!

The stubborn verse he ne'er could vary
To that unlucky—Tipperary!
Strange that a wight so wise and wary,
Could find no rhyme for—Tipperary!

He next implored his mother Mary,
To tell him rhyme for—Tipperary!
But she, good woman, was no fairy,
Nor witch, though born in—Tipperary!

Knew every thing about her dairy,
But not the rhyme for—Tipperary!
Drawing from thence a corollary,
That nought would rhyme with—Tipperary!

And of this wild-goose chase most weary,
He vowed to leave out—Tipperary!
* His mother Mary
Kept a dairy
In Tipperary!

The gifts of the muses are not offered to every one who passes by, as common favors: they must be sought after, and obtained with difficulty.

"Happy the man whose heart feels no remorse. Who, with his lot contented, frequently enjoys the delight of doing good. The serenity of the morning invites him to new joy—his days are full of happiness, and night finds him in the arms of the sweetest slumbers. His mind is forever open to the impressions of pleasure." The various beauties of the season enchant him, and he alone enjoys all the bounties of nature.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS, MESSRS. LANG, TURNER & CO.
New-York, November 6.
EXCHANGE COFFEE-HOUSE AT BOSTON, DESTROYED BY FIRE!

Merchants' Hall, Boston, Nov. 4, 1 P.M.
In consequence of the fire last evening, no papers were issued this day.

About 7 o'clock last evening, a fire was discovered in the south-west corner of the Exchange Coffee-House. The alarm was given, but few people attended, as it was thought not to be dangerous, and that in a few minutes it would be extinguished; but it was soon ascertained that the fire was between the upper ceiling and the roof, and in a short time spread to the north-west corner with great rapidity, and all hopes of stopping its progress were abandoned. The alarm now became general, and the citizens, with their accustomed alacrity, hastened to the spot. The flames burst through the roof, which being composition, (that is, covered with tarred paper and then with gravel) soon spread over the top of the whole building. All that could now be done, was to save the furniture and other property in the building, and prevent the flames from spreading without its walls. Owing to the extreme height of the building, water could not be conveyed to the part on fire by any engine in the place. About half past 8, the whole building was one entire body of flame, and presented to the spectators a scene awfully grand and sublime. About 9 o'clock, the north and part of the south wall fell with a most tremendous crash, and beat in the roof, windows, &c. of Mr. Wright's house; part of the roof, windows, &c. of the south and west end of Suffolk buildings; the windows, &c. of the south end of Rogers' Buildings, and part of the roof and wall of the Friends' Meeting-House, all situated in Congress-street. About 10 o'clock, that noble edifice, the pride and ornament of the town, and the most superior establishment of the kind in the United States, or in fact, in any part of Europe, was nothing but one heap of ruins. The buildings in Congress-street, opposite to the Exchange Coffee-House, owned and improved by Messrs. Young & Minns, editors of the Palladium, Mr. Wright, tailor, and others, were on fire; but in consequence of the east wall of the Coffee-House standing entire, and apparently ready to fall, it was thought dangerous to approach them, and that it would be impossible to save these buildings. But by the perseverance of the firewards, and the usual spirit and courage of the several engine companies, the fire was extinguished, and only the two upper stories of Messrs. Young & Minns' building, and the upper story of Mr. Wright's house, were destroyed.

Messrs. Wells & Lilly, printers, improved the two upper stories in Messrs. Young & Minns' building, in which they had a great quantity of paper, books, &c. their loss must be considerable. All the materials of the Daily Advertiser office, Gazette office, and Centinel office, and all the goods, furniture, &c. in the buildings near the Coffee-House, were removed to places of more safety: this caused great confusion; the streets were much encumbered with various articles promiscuously thrown together. In the rear of the Coffee-House, on Devonshire-street, 4 brick buildings, 4 stories high, were destroyed, two of them were attached to the Coffee-House, the upper stories improved for sleeping rooms, and the lower stories had been fitted up into very fine bathing rooms, for the use of the lodgers in the house, and the citizens generally. The other two were improved by Messrs. Green & Lincoln, printers, White, tailor, several shoe-makers, and small families.

The Exchange Coffee-House, under the management of Mr. Barnum, had very deservedly attained great reputation, and was as creditable to him as satisfactory to the gentlemen who resorted there. His loss must be great, as the house was elegantly furnished, and what furniture was not consumed in the building is broken, lost, and otherwise injured—that is, a great part of it. At this time a great many lodgers were in the house, many of whom have lost most of their baggage. The hon. Mr. Clay lost part of his baggage.

The fire took place in the seventh story, in a room situated at the south-west corner of the building, in which was kept a billiard table, but whether it originated from a lamp, or a defect in the chimney, cannot be ascertained.

That splendid edifice contained upwards of 300 rooms, and cost the original proprietor nearly 500,000 dollars. I understand that one of the proprietors had 10,000 dollars insured, which is all the insurance that was on the building.

The police of the town have employed a number of men, who are now at work, endeavoring to fell the wall on the east side into the cellar. As it now stands it is very dangerous to pass, and should it fall across the streets, must crush the buildings opposite.

About half past 11 o'clock, another alarm of fire was given, which proved to be a brewery at Charleston, which was consumed, and part of a rope walk.

The several printing offices are in such a damaged state, that I think it doubtful if any papers are issued to-morrow.
Yours,
S. TOPLIFF.

From the Orleans Gazette.
The government of the United States have made arrangements for carrying into speedy execution their plans, long since formed, for rendering the country on the lower Mississippi invulnerable and unsailable by a foreign enemy. These plans are intended chiefly for the security of the city of New-Orleans, and when they are completed, no invading army will be able to approach (as formerly) so near that the sound of their cannon can be heard in our streets. We are informed that contracts have been made and are making, for the erection of extensive works to cover the bay of Mobile, and all the rivers and passages which afford an entrance from the sea into the Mississippi.

The attention which Mr. Calhoun, the present Secretary at War, has bestowed on this highly important subject, will enhance the reputation of that able and upright minister, not only through this lower country, but throughout the whole western territory, of which New-Orleans is at once the citadel and the emporium.

The national government evince at this moment, a becoming anxiety to promote as well the general welfare as the society of this important section of the union. A light house, on a magnificent scale, has already been commenced at the mouth of the river, under the directions of the treasury department, and in addition to the fortifications to which we have alluded, ample barracks and arsenals are about to be erected at various points.

Extract of a letter dated Natchitoches, September 30.
"Last evening there arrived at this place, an express from Nacogdoches, giving intelligence of there having set out from St. Antoine, twenty five days ago, 200 Spaniards, with three pieces of artillery, to break up the establishment made at Galvestown, and destroy the works erected by Gen. Lallemande. Their orders are to proceed as far as Nacogdoches, and to destroy the settlements made in that quarter, and rout a number of traders dispersed throughout the province. It is generally expected that they will come on to the Rio Honda if not opposed. There are a number of men collected here, consisting of Americans and refugee Spaniards, who are equipping to proceed immediately to oppose them."

Interesting news from the Polar expedition.
At length the official despatches from the ships employed on the discovery of the north-west passage, have been received, and we understand are most satisfactory. They are dated July 23, at which time the Isabella and the Alexander were in lat 75 deg. 30 min. N long 60 deg. 30 min. W. well over to the American coast, the weather serene and perfectly clear. The variation of the compass, by accurate observations repeatedly made on board both ships, was 88 deg. and the dip 84 deg. 30 min. which led them to conclude, that they were approaching very nearly to the magnetic pole. It had been perfectly calm—the sea was smooth as glass for 3 or 4 days, and the current drifted them to the south-eastward, which raised their hopes of an open passage round the point of America, from which quarter it appeared to proceed. All the way up the middle of Davis' Straits they skirted an unbroken field of ice, but as they proceeded it became thinner, and apparently rotten, and they were sanguine that the moment the breeze sprang up, the ice to the westward would open to them a passage, and allow them to reach the northern shores of America. The utmost harmony prevailed among the officers, and every part of the ships' company, and all were in perfect health. Such is the substance of the accounts which we have been able to learn. There are abundance of private letters to the friends and relations of those who have embarked in this most important and interesting enterprise. The following is an extract of one:
From his Majesty's ship Isabella, at sea, lat 75, 25, long 50, 7, variations 88, 48—July 25.

Dear D—, This is our last opportunity this year, therefore I could not let it pass without writing, although nothing has passed since my last. We are now to the northward of all the ships that are fishing; we see some a long way astern; the boat with despatches is going immediately to one of them; they have followed a great way this year, and have been very kind in giving us every assistance when in the ice: I sincerely wish them all safe back; they have a long way to go through the ice. The coast begins to look more and more miserable: as we get north, it has more the appearance of a chain of ice mountains than land; the sea is one solid field of ice as far as the eye can reach. When the wind blows from the north, we find narrow passages in it, and through them we pass on; sometimes the whole of our men are on the ice, dragging the ship along the edge of the flaws. From the great variation, we cannot be a great way from the magnetic pole; you will see the variation by our last observation on the head of the letter.

P. S.—I cannot yet say any thing about the success of our voyage; the season I think is favorable. Young R— and I had a long hunt after a large bear the other day, but he got away from us. I shall have some long stories to tell you when I see you next.

Origin of Sunday Schools and Bible Societies.—Mr. Robert Raikes, a printer, of Gloucester in England, instituted the first Sunday School, in the year 1782. Being in the outskirts of that city, he was greatly disturbed by a troop of wretched noisy boys. Full of compassion, he began to think what could be done to remedy the evil. And on the good woman with whom he was conversing, saying, "O, sir, if you were here on a Sunday you would pity them, indeed, for they are much more numerous, and a hundred times worse—it is a very hell upon earth—we cannot read our Bible in peace for them!" it occurred to him that if these children could be put to School on a Sunday, this disorder might be prevented, and the children taught better. The thought was immediately carried into effect by employing a poor woman in the neighborhood to teach them, and this spark kindled a flame which will never be extinguished; and has already proved a signal blessing to thousands and tens of thousands. And Bible Societies spring from the same seed. When the Sunday Schools spread into Wales, a sufficient number of Welsh Bibles could not be got for the use of the children. A personal application was made by a Mr. Charles to some friends in London to aid him in a subscription to defray the expense of printing an edition of Welsh Bibles. In the course of conversation, at a committee meeting of a Religious Tract Society, the Rev. Joseph Hughes suggested that a little more exertion than was requisite for supplying Wales with the Scriptures, might found an Institution which should go on increasing in funds and extending its operations, till not only the British dominions, but the whole world should be supplied with the word of God. This idea was carried into effect. Such is the origin of a Society which is the glory of our age.

From the Charleston City Gazette.
"DARIEN GAZETTE."

We have received the first number of a weekly paper under this title, published at Darien, (Georgia) by Messrs. M'INTYRE & MILLER. It is neatly executed and ably edited; and we wish the proprietors all the success they seem so richly to deserve. We have extracted from it some interesting matter relative to the situation and trade of the place.

DARIEN.
This thriving little town, destined by nature to be a great commercial depot, begins to rise into notice and allure traders. Lots, during the last three years, have risen 800 per cent. and buildings multiplied at a greater ratio—yet applications for them are incessant—so much so, that almost before a store can be framed, it is engaged by a tenant; and hundreds more would have been erected, but for the scarcity of materials, which at present command a ready sale and high price. Measures, however, have been adopted to remedy the hindrance in part, by constructing Saw-Mills in the neighborhood, where the forests are inexhaustible; and it is reasonable to believe, that the prospect of gain will also induce our up-country brethren, residing on the Altamaha, and its tributary waters to enter into competition—so we may expect our market in a short time, to be stored with sawn lumber in profusion, and the present number of houses quadrupled.

Some persons at a distance think, however, that Darien has already obtained a precocity, foreboding an early decline—it has reached its climax, and must fall—as the adjacent country is too thinly inhabited to support even the retail business. The inference is drawn from erroneous premises. The pine-barrens in this vicinity, it is true, are but scantily peopled—and will remain so, until beef, butter, fowls, and hog lard, become in more request in town than at present. Yet settlements in our pine woods are daily making. The worn out and bills of Burke, Edgumham and Bulloch, no longer able to maintain their inhabitants, are sending numbers out to the south, where pasture is better and game more plenty. As these foresters, wherever they may locate themselves, have, however, but few wants, they are looked on by the shopkeeper, as well as the merchant, as of little consequence. The sea board and islands, together with the town, give life to retailing—and from St. Catharine's to Jekyll, with a parallel coast, a tract equal if not superior in population, fertility, and of course in wealth, to any similarly situated in the state, being dependent on this place for supplies, factors as well as retailers have certainly no reason on this head to apprehend a decline in business.

Darien, until lately, lay, it must be admitted, under auspices somewhat onerous. The Indian line, reaching to Goose-Creek, about thirty miles hence, included the whole Southern side of the Altamaha upwards together with a considerable portion of the Ocklawaha. The consequence may be easily conjectured. Amity with savages being always precarious, and safety still less so when the prospect is plunder, but few individuals willing to hazard their property or lives in so dangerous a route as led to this market, could be found even in time of peace—and in war, the navigation of both streams was impracticable, from the numbers of Indians who lined the southern banks, then a mere wilderness, wholly unprofitable to the planter and merchant.

Darien, being cut off from the back country, drew, of course, but little attention and less trade. But circumstances have changed with the times. By Mitchell's treaty the Indians have relinquished their right to a rich tract of land, comprising the southern margin of Altamaha and Ocklawaha. This cession, when settled—will be disposed of by the present Legislature—will obtain a strong chain of white inhabitants to the savages, and completely secure our communication with the interior, besides adding largely to the quantity of produce that must find a vent through our market.

Darien can neither retrograde nor pause, but must increase with more than common rapidity. Its position as to Milledgeville is similar to that of Savannah with Augusta. The superior facilities it offers to the trade of the richest parts of the upper country no longer remain a secret, and cannot have escaped the observation of the people residing in that quarter, who will, unless they be heedless of their own interest, not neglect to embrace them. Who will presume that men endowed with reason, would prefer sending their bulky products to market, by a costly land conveyance of about 20 miles per day, when in one half of the time and at one third of the expense, their object might be effected by water? But, as a salvo, it has been said, that Darien contains not capital enough to pay for the staples of the interior. Granting our merchants to be deficient in funds, what would be the inference? That a bank is needed. A banking house, now erecting, will soon be finished, and we would be loath to believe, that the Legislature will tax the majority of their constituents, in forcing them to continue the land transportation, by refusing to Darien a bank-charter.

Valuable Land for Sale.
HAVING more land in the tract on which I reside than I can farm to advantage, I will expose to public sale, on the 5th day of NOVEMBER next, if fair, if not the next fair day, eight hundred acres, divided into lots of two hundred acres; each lot has seventy acres and fifty acres of the cleared land one hundred and fifty acres in clover, and two hundred in rye and wheat. This land is situated ten miles below Alexandria, and is bounded north and east by Accotink creek, which separates the lower part of it from Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price can be had for grain. It is as fertile as any land in the county, and is susceptible of improvement, by clover and plaster, as any I have seen. Persons wishing to view it will call on the subscriber, living at Cedar Grove, one mile below Janney's mill.
The terms will be one-third of the purchase money in hand, and the balance in two equal annual payments. The sale will take place at 12 o'clock, on the premises.

Gunston for Sale.
THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Potlick creeks, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaster acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that we I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole; it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary out-house, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all night) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvas backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the River, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Potlick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

Valuable Property for Sale.
THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, late spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutritious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq., or

PROPOSALS.
By Gideon Fairman, John Binns and Charles S. Parker, TO PUBLISH A Splendid Edition of Washington's Farewell Address. To the People of the United States.

THE world has seen enough of warriors and of Heroes—enough of Statesmen—of men who have guided Armies in the field, or dictated as Sages in the Cabinet, for the exclusive purpose of Ambition. History from its earliest page to the present day, has offered to our contemplation, only ONE WASHINGTON, but ONE MAN, whose dangers in war, and labors in peace were undertaken and supported with a single eye, to the benefit of his country; whose wonderful and honorable success, was the plain result of wisdom in design, and valor in execution; whom danger never appalled, nor defeat depressed; who, persevering in the justice of his cause, wooed Victory till he won her: who coveted no reward but the well earned approbation of those whose interest he lived to promote: who renounced all public honors, when they ceased to be the necessary instruments of good to the people, whose gratitude conferred them: who superior to all Monarchs, was content to be called the American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union; the danger of indulging too much in party feelings—the necessity of supporting public credit at home:—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations: of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments:—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, is the aim of the proposed Edition.
The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

MR. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmanship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address; & when it shall be completed, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 25 inches, will be made by Mr. Amies. The ink shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials. The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN; and the Typographical part executed by John Binns. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splendid edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splendid Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next. That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal, of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A Legislator for its Security! A magistrate for its Happiness," it is not intended to solicit any Subscriptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving. Philadelphia, July 31.
